PALAZZO GIUSTINIANI

Back to 17th Century in Salento

Palazzo Giustiniani is a hidden gem nestled in the charming town of Sogliano Cavour in Salento, Apulia (Italy), perfectly positioned between Salento's famous beaches and its artistic cities. This exquisite historical residence, dating back to the 17th century, offers a perfect retreat throughout all seasons of the year. Palazzo Giustiniani stands as an elegant testament to Apulian living at its finest. Its interior design boasts a deliberate minimalistic design, a conscious effort to accentuate the simple yet refined historical architectural style of the Palazzo. Upon entering, you're greeted by star-shaped vaulted ceilings, a hallmark of Salento's finest dwellings. The noble floor boasts seven-meter-high ceilings adorned with star-shaped vaults, giving a great feeling of space and majesty. The Palazzo overlooks a picturesque square and the Church of San Lorenzo. Palazzo Giustiniani underwent a meticulous two-year renovation, which was completed in 2023 with great attention to detail. The Palazzo is an environmentally friendly building, incorporating green features such as solar panels, a heat pump, and solar water heating, all of which contribute to its energy efficiency and self-sufficiency. Furthermore, when and where possible, the renovation utilized reclaimed and recycled materials and locally sourced, vintage furniture.

Palazzo Giustiniani is 1 hour car drive from Brindisi airport.

The Palazzo was originally built for two brothers and still today maintains this dual feature; hence you can rent the left side, the right side or the whole Palazzo whichever suits your needs best.

The right side, also known as "L'ambasciatore," can accommodate 10-12 people. Connected to the main hall, there is a reading room, a perfect spot to relax in the company of a good book. The dining hall can host up to twelve guests around an elegant Lazy Susan table. The modern kitchen, entirely made of steel, features an induction cooking system, a large oven, a spacious fridge, and a fireplace.

The beauty of the interiors and the patio of this classic Salento dwelling extends to the secret garden, an idyllic spot that includes a spectacular pool shaded by a centuries-old tree. In the Palazzo, you will also find a concealed staircase that grants access to the rooftop terrace, enabling you to admire the charming town square, stunning pink sunsets, and starry nights.

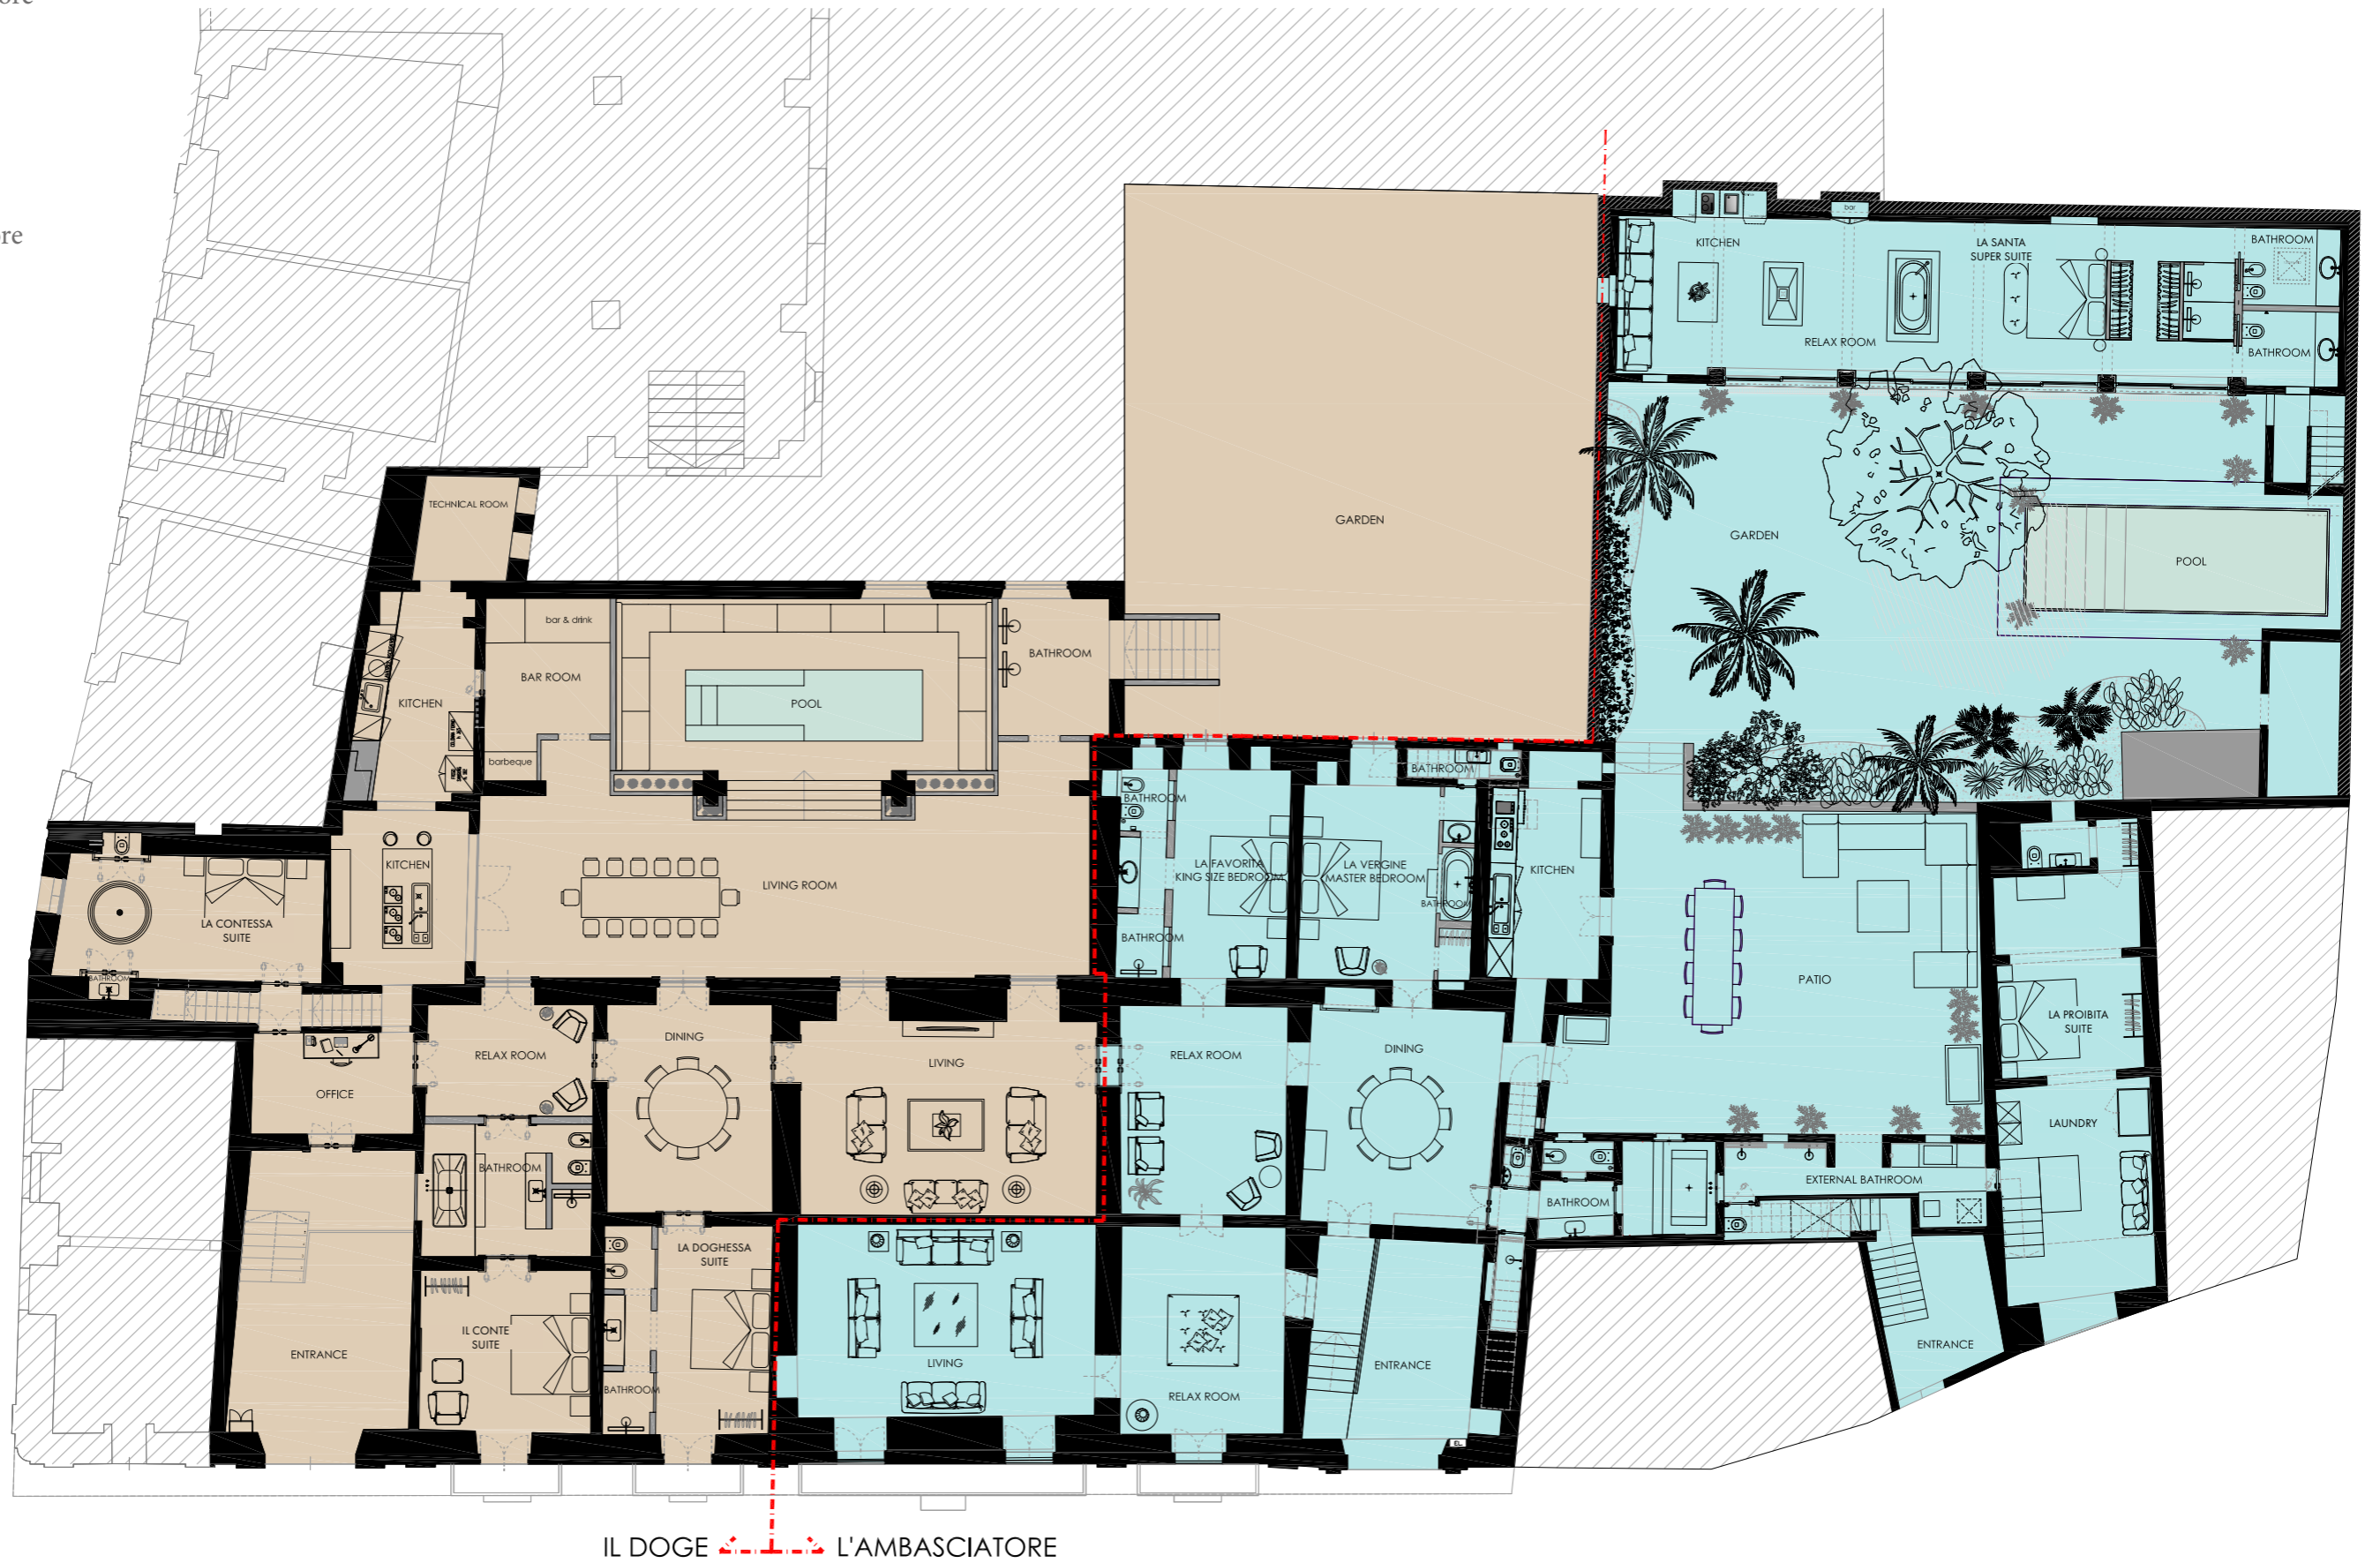

The left side, also known as "Il Doge," can accommodate 10 people. The main hall, without doubts the most majestic room of the Palazzo, serves as a living room where you can chill-out, read a book or just be with friends and family. Connected to the main hall you have the dining room that hosts 12 people around an elegant Lazy Susan table. The main hall looks out on a magnificent terrazzo, enclosed by walls for your privacy. The modern kitchen, entirely made of steel, features an induction cooking system, a large oven, a spacious fridge and a generous pantry room. The kitchen also offers a view of the terrazzo. The terrazzo, which boasts a heated pool, serves as the focal point of the dwelling, establishing a seamless flow and connection between the interior (kitchen and living room) and exterior spaces. In the Palazzo, you will also find a concealed staircase that grants access to the rooftop terrace, enabling you to admire the charming town square, stunning pink sunsets, and starry nights.
